F. Woodcock, the scratch man, won the mile run in the Manual Training School games at the Fourteenth Regiment armory last night. It took him six laps to catch the limit man, who had 100 yards. Woodcock was leading by five yards at the finish. His time was 4 minutes 87 2-5 seconds. With the exception of a few races for the members of the Fourteenth Regiment and a dash for Grammar School boys the meet was closed to the school.

The seventy yard run for the Fourteenth Regiment went to L. J. Lovell, who also started from scratch. G. H. Court of Company E' was second. The half mile run for the Fourteenth Regiment was won by B. Pearsail of Company D in 2 minutes 1 1-5 seconds.

F. Whseler, with fifteen yards, easily held, the lead from the start in the quarter mile run, handicap. The scratch man, Kelley, took third. The half mile run also was won by the back marker, Reimer, in 2 minutes 14 4-5 seconds.

D. Friend, the P. S. A. L. champion sprinter, won the seventy yards and furiong races in good time. Something new was introduced in the obstacle race—wall scaling with ropes, crawling under bars and a number of other obstructions that made the event more interesting than usual. The summary:

ANYAPOLIS, Md., Jan. S.—The midshipmen defeated the City College of New York this afternoon by 29 to 21, the victory being largely due to a remarkable sourt of Wenzell in the last half. His playing had not been noteworthy in the first period, but in the second he scored six goals in rapid succession, only one other being scored by the Midshipmen during the half.

The Navy started the game with three field goals in succession, but the next scores were three field goals and a goal from the foul line by the visitors, which put them one to the good. The Midshipmen gradually forged ahead in the remainder of

Spirited Play in Seventh Regiment Tour-

The Seventh Regiment tenns tourna-ment was continued yesterday, the best matches occurring in the regimental cham-pionship singles. William B. Cragfi, Jr., the present champion, worked his way into the final round by the defeat of his brother, A. S. Cragin, in the semi-finals. The holder of the title gained the victory in straight by a score of 34 to 18. This game was the hardest and fastest contest the New York A. S. Cragin, in the semi-finals. The holder of the title gained the victory in straight sets of $\tilde{\top} - 3$. $\tilde{\top} - 4$. In the second round there was a spirited tussle between W. Merrill Hall and King Smith, formerly of Harvard. Hall secured the first set easily at $\tilde{\top} - 3$ and he had a lead in the second set, but Smith braced himself and put Hall on the defensive. Smith kept up his speed and won the set ?\tilde{\top} - 5$. The ex-Harvard player weakened a bit in the third set and Hall won at $\tilde{\top} - 2$. The victory puts Hall into the semifinal, where he is to meet Calhoun Cragin a champion of a couple of years ago. William B. B. Cragin won his match in the second round from Charles M. Aumerman.

Only one match was attempted in the doubles and this was unfinished on account of the darkness. The match was in the semi-final round when Arthur S. Cragin and Calhoun Cragin met William B. Oragin, Jr., and W. Merrill Hall. Each side won a set. The summary:

DEFEATS CORNELL'S TEAM IN

either Side Scores in First Half and the Play is Ragged—Harvard by Good Team Work Makes Four Goals in

Cornell did fairly well, but the team was clearly outmatched. The players skate well, but have little idea of team work and there is too much reliance placed on in-

In the first half the play on both sides was very ragged. It often happens that when a good team goes against a poor team the good team cannot play its game, and this was probably the reason that Harvard did not show up well. Neither side seemed able to do anything with the puck. It was all individual playing and the puck was kept hustling up and down the ice. Once or twice Harvard tried some team work, but Cornell easily broke it up. Toward the end of the half Cornell sent three shots at the Harvard cage and should have scored, but the shots were ragged and lacked force. In the second half things changed wonderfully. The whistle had hardly blown when the Harvard line got in motion and with fast clever passing sometimes all the way across the loe the puck was carried to Cornell's goal. Twice shots were made, but they went wide. Then after I minute 47 seconds the line carried the puck down the rink and there was a scrimmage in front of the net and Hicks pushed the puck by Vali for the first goal. Soon after this Foster made a clever run, but fell just as he reached cover point's position.

The Harvard players kept up the good work and showed up well. Jones succeeded in getting the puck at the side and fell. Hornblower made a shot at once from almost the centre of the side line and landed the puck in the net. This was after 3 minutes 20 seconds of play. In a few seconds less than five minutes the ine again carried the puck toward Cornell's goal and when it was shot it landed in the corner. It was passed out and Hicks got it in the centre of the rink. He made a very clever exhibition of stick work and dodging through the Cornell team, carried the puck close up to the net and socred.

Duncan was taken out of the game then in order that Leslie might have some practice and a little later Small replaced Chadwick at goal on Harvard's team. Hicks seconds of play. He took the puck on a pass from Huntington, who had carried it almost the whole length of the rink. The last goal was scored by Hicks after 18 minutes 25 seconds of play. He took from Magner, the Cornell centre, and then scored when a good team goes against a poor team he good team cannot play its game, and
